You know fall is well under way when WEMU's free 5:01 Jazz shows start back up. We are honored to kick off the series with the Andy Adamson Quartet on Friday, October 7th at Rush Street Nightclub, in Ann Arbor.

An Ann Arbor native, Andy Adamson is a veteran of many outstanding regional bands: Dick Siegel's Ministers of Melody, Norma Jean Bell and The All Stars and F.U.B.A.R. Andy can play it all, but jazz is his first love.

Andy loves many of the same jazz artists enjoyed by WEMU listeners: John Coltrane, The Mahavishnu Orchestra and Chick Corea. He brings these influences to bear in his music as you will hear in his recent CD A Cry For Peace. But, Andy is a totally original musician with unique chords and rhythms weaving through his songs. His ideas flow in a stream of consciousness and passion. His fellow musicians easily go with the flow: saxophonist Dan Bennett, bassist Brennan Andes and drummer Jonathan Taylor.
